The Mecklenburg Deel aration, May 20, 1875. BY WILLIAM C . BLAM.

Oppressed and few, but free men yet,
The men of Mecklenburg and met,
Determined to be f and cro k no cow and knee.
Though Might in trop! and Treason at their back
Brought death and it in in their joint attack.

The Tyrant's heel 'cas on the land
When Poik converged his galant band,
And fold in words full from
The bitter tale of wrong.
Then came a 'chisper, like the storm's first waves:
We must be independent, or be slaves?"

But bark! What hurried rister this,
With jade of horse and garbamiss,
Withose tooks some woe proclaims
Fre he his mission names?
He rices amain from far-off Lexington,
And tests the blood-red news of war began! Then Brevard, Balch, and Kennon spoke The wise, told words that aye invoke
Men to defend the right
And scorn the Despot's might;
Until from all there arose the answiring cry:
"We will be independent, or we die!"

When Alexander called the vote,
No destard "mays" discordant note
Broke on that holy sir—
For da tard none was there!
But in prompt answer to their country's call
They pleaged life, fortune, sacred honer—all!

In solemn hush the people heard; With shout and cheer they caught the word; "Independence! In that sign We grasp our right civine; For the Tyrant's might and the Traitor's hate Must yield to men who fight for God and State :"

The hero-shout flew on the breeze; Rushed from the mountains to the seas; Till all the land uprose.
Their faces to their foes.
Shook off the thradom they so long had borne.
And swore the oath that Mecklenburg had sworn.

And well those men maintained the right;
They kept the Earth and fought the fight;
Till Might and Treason, both,
Fred fast before the oath
Which trought the God of Freedom's battles down
To clace on tatriot brows the victor's crown: May 20, 1875.

A Close, Hard Man. A hard, close man was Solomon Ray,
Nothing of value he gave away;
He hoarded and saved;
He plached and shaved;
And the more he had the more he craved. The hard-earned dollars he tolled to gain

Brought hin. Butle but care and pain; For little he spent, And all be lent He made it bring him twenty per cent. Such was the life of Solomon Gray, The years went by, and his hair grew gray, It's checks grew thin, And his soul within Grew hard as the do lars he worked to win. But he died one day, as all men must, For life is fleeting and man but dust. The heirs were cay

That laid him away.
And that was the end of solomon Ray.

They quarrelled now, who had little cared For Solomon flay while his life was spared. His lands were sold. And his hard-carned gold All went to the lawyers, I am told. Yet men will cheat, and pinch, and save,
Nor carry their treasures beyond the grave,
All their gold some day
Will melt away

Like the selfish savings of Selomon Ray.

NEWSPAPER SALARIES .- The New YOLK brucie on New York newspaper salaries and the better appreciation of journalistic industry, refers to two great establishments as number of reforms. He is of the opinion that it does not hurt a journal, even the Herabl, to be printed partially in terse, nervous, correct English, which cannot be had for journeyman's bire. He believes the editorial page ought to be forcible; and with this view he has engaged Ivory Chamberlair, John Russell Young, Charles Nordheff, and John D. Stockton to write for it at figuers ranging from $4,000 to $7,000 per year. Stockton is understood to have $4,000; Young, $6,000; Nordboff and Chamberlain, $7,000 each. The sub-journalists on this prosperous daily | cured by a deed of trust are more liberally compensated than they used to be. Connery, the managing editor, receives $5,000; the city editor, $2,800; the financial editor, $3,000; the principal night editor, $2,800; the foreign editor, $2,700 per annum, and others in proportion. This is not much, but it is far more than the eld

Formerly that was impossible.
"Mr. Whitelaw Read, of the Tribune, gets $12,000 per annum. Of the editorial writers, John R. G. A NATIONAL VICE .- To the Editor of the New York Tribune : Sir,-The average American spits, it is said, just as the average crow caws, unceasingly and viciously, and, although the people aim so boastfully at excelling in brain culture, there seems to be lacking thus far the moral and social cultivation necessary to shake off this filthy habit, which is scarcely short of a national vice. celling in brain culture, there seems to be In no other country, civilized or barbarous, would notices requesting men "not to spit, out of respect for the ladies," be called for, and, to our shame be it said, in no country would this modest, reasonable request be so would this modest, reasonable request be so | Ninth streets, fronting on the former 88 3-12 feet persistently disregarded. Nor is the nauseating practice confined to common youths asserting manly freedom, but men old enough to have to pay for spoiled dresses are guilty of an equal disregard for others rights and feelings. Every woman who uses to any extent public conveyances can recall having her clothing soiled—and every man of decent babits who has been siekened by the expectoration he has been unable to the expectoration he has been unable to escape. The right of a man to spit in a ments at six, tweive, eighteen, twenty-four, thirty public conveyance or building, at the expense of others' clothing, feelings, and comfort, is no greater than his right to perform any other dirty trick.

HARD ON THE DUCTORS .- The Medical Association of America convened in Louisville last week, and there were doctors in the city " world without end." The local on the Courier-Journal thus "took them off":

There isn't a darky wearing out his existence on the levee who is not afraid to go forty feet from where he lives after dark, on account of there being so many doctors in the city. "No, sah, you ain't gwine to got dis nigga to fool about town after dark, kase dem doctors is 'bad medicine.' around which nature has clustered her choicest seenery, will, by request of the owner, he sold at public auction on THIREDAY the 20th day of May, 1875, at 4% o'clock P. M.

The FARM contains THREE HUNDRED ACRES of most fertile pasture mountain-land, 'wo-thirds arable, and the balance in original growth.

The GARDEN, with all kinds of vegetables and a variety of choice grapes is more than adequate. The GARDEN, with all kinds of vegetables and a variety of choice grapes, is more than adequate in supplying the hole.

The IMPROVEMENTS are of a most substantial character; built of stone and brick—in good order—and consist, besides usual out-houses, of a LARGE HOTEL, ample to accommodate 100 ormore guests, having a two-story promenade balcony across its front, commanding most extensive views of the Shenandoah Valley and mountain ranges. The MEDICINAL ADVANTAGES of the fit Charbeate Spring adjacent to the hotel together, with the purified atmosphere peculiar to this place, owing to its allitude (neing one thousand nine hunowing to its attitude (neing one thousand mine nun-dred and ninety-six feet above tide-water, and the highest summer resort in the mountains of Vir-ginia), have can ed numberless invalids from all sections of the country to seek the advantage of this gioia), have can en numberless in and sections of the country to seek the advantage of this sections of the country to seek the advantage of this water and atmosphere, so revivifying to weak and delieste constitutions.

The LOCATION OF MOUNTAIN-TOP for views is unsurpassed. The three counties of Augusta, Albembrie, and Nelson converge to a point in frent of the hotel, and seem to vie with each other in the display of their extraordiary beauties from this point. To the west, the beautiful Sherrandoah valley displays its towns and villages from the films hidge to the North mountain, and from Stauntowiar beyond Weyer's cave; to the east, the Albemarle and kockfish valleys, with their towns and villages, from Charlottesville to Afton; and up and along the base of the Blue Ridge is a landscape the equal of which is not to be found.

The mountains here abound in all kinds of game, and are frequented by camp-numbers from the adjacent counties. The RAILROAD COMMUNICATIONS TO The RAILROAD COMMUNICATIONS TO MOUNTAIN-TOP are such that visitors can leave either Baltimore, Washington, Richmond, or Lyncheurg (they belt g about equi-distant) after business hours Saturday and re ura at an early hour on the following Monday mornlog.
